2021 Ford Bronco Sport Review

By Allyson Harwood
Updated January 30, 2025

Pros

- Designed for outdoor adventure, with off-road chops
- Related to the new Bronco, with more mass appeal
- Clever interior has terrific storage solutions
- Advanced 4WD tech helps off-roaders of all abilities

Cons

- No two-wheel-drive models, which could hurt MPG
- Upper trim levels could get pricey

What's New?

- The Bronco Sport is an all-new model for 2021

The 2021 Ford Bronco Sport is the third model to join Ford's Bronco family of SUVs. Unlike the Bronco 2- and 4-door, which are based on a truck platform, the Bronco Sport is based on a crossover SUV platform. This vehicle is smaller than the Escape and larger than the EcoSport, putting the Bronco Sport in the large subcompact SUV category. While some larger subcompact SUVs skew toward city life and errand-running, the Bronco Sport is designed for adventure. It has trail-tested off-road capability, up to 8.8 inches of ground clearance, a purpose-built interior, and a terrain management system that makes it easy to navigate a variety of surfaces. We expect the Bronco Sport to compete with vehicles

2021 Ford Bronco Sport Depreciation

Annual Depreciation is an estimation of what your vehicle's value might be over time based on an average of similar vehicles. Estimations are calculated by comparing Kelley Blue Book Private Party Values of vehicles similar to yours over time, as well as forecasts from Manheim Auction data comparing current and projected auction values against current Kelley Blue Book Private Party and Trade-In Values. This is not a guarantee of actual depreciation. Local weather conditions, market factors and driver performance will also impact your vehicle's actual depreciation.
